

LEVELED Book • J

• Hannah's Townsperson

Written by Alyse Sweeney • Illustrated by Joel Snyder

Hannah's Townspeople

Written by Alyse Sweeney
Illustrated by Joel Snyder

"I'm building the fire station!"

said Hannah.

"I'm building the pizza place,"

said Andy.

Their school project was almost done.

The friends looked at their town.
It had a police station and a school.
It had an ice cream store, too!

"Now we need some people,"
said Hannah.

"Mom, can you take us to the store
to buy people for our town?"
asked Hannah.

"Not now, sweetie. I'm making dinner," said her mom.

“Ugghhh!” Hannah groaned.

“We need people!”

Hannah went into her older sister
Kate's room.
Kate was playing outside.
Hannah stood on a stool to reach the tiny dolls from around the world.

Then Hannah quickly walked past the kitchen.

"Hannah," said her mom. "You know you can't play with Kate's dolls without asking her first."

"But we need people!" cried Hannah.

"You can use my baby dolls," offered Lucy.

Hannah's three-year-old sister, Lucy, held out two baby dolls.

"Those dolls are too big for our town," pouted Hannah.

"But thanks anyway," she said.

Then Hannah smiled a big smile.
She ran to her room to get her art box.

"Let's MAKE the people!" she shouted.

"Yeah!" agreed Andy.

"I'll make the workers," he said.

"I'll make the shoppers," Hannah said.

The friends colored and cut.
They glued, and they taped.

Glitter, yarn, paper, and cloth made popsicle sticks become . . .

. . . firefighters, teachers,
police officers, pizza makers,
and ice cream scoopers!

"Neat!" said Lucy.

"Wow!" said Hannah's mom.

"Cool!" said Kate.

"Tomorrow, let's build a zoo and make our own animals," said Andy.

"Great idea!" said Hannah.

Hannah's Townspeople
Level J Leveled Book
© Learning A-Z
Written by Alyse Sweeney
Illustrated by Joel Snyder

All rights reserved.
www.readinga-z.com

Correlation
LEVEL J
Fountas & Pinnell	J
Reading Recovery	17
DRA	18